

3rd International Workshop ONSEA

Quaternary land-sea interface: geological evolution and archaeological records

Online

3 and 4 September 2026

WORKSHOP SCOPES

The ONSEA project run by Gaia Mattei (University of Naples Parthenope, Italy), Driss Chahid (Cadi Ayyad University, Morocco), Claudia Caporizzo (Pegaso University, Italy), Matthieu Giaime (University Montpellier Paul-Valéry, France), and Ana Novak (Geological Survey of Slovenia, Slovenia) aims at creating a large interdisciplinary community of PhD, DCR, ECR and SS, sharing common interest in the study of the geomorphological evolution and the human occupation of the coastlines during the Quaternary.

Due to flight availability issues, requests from many colleagues in our community, and uncertainties regarding travel caused by the severe fuel shortage, we have decided to move the 3rd edition of the ONSEA workshop to a fully ONLINE format. While we initially planned to host this event in Morocco, these logistical challenges have made an in-person gathering difficult.

In this context, the 3rd International Workshop ONSEA, a joint event between ONSEA, the IAG Working Group in Coastal Geoarchaeology and PALSEA next, aims to create a forum regarding a wide range of thematic topics related to climate and coastal studies such as:

- ❖ Marine quaternary, geomorphology and stratigraphy
- ❖ Geoarchaeological studies of coastal areas;
- ❖ From field data to modeling approaches;
- ❖ New perspectives for paleo-landscape reconstructions;
- ❖ Coastal response to past and future climate changes;
- ❖ Past interactions between human societies and coastal processes;
- ❖ Shelf-to-nearshore evolution modeling.
